

Additional Information: Katherine Waite, The Portico Group
617 489 2789
kwaite@altvil.com

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Altman Vilandrie & Company Moves Offices
To 53 State Street in Boston

Relocation Comes as Firm Continues to Extend Leadership Position in Strategy Consulting Within Communications, Media/Entertainment and Related Investor Sectors

May 20, 2009 – BOSTON, MA – Altman Vilandrie & Company (AV&Co.), one of the only pure play strategy consulting firms focused exclusively on the communications, media/entertainment and related technology and investor sectors, today announced that the firm has moved its headquarter offices to the 37th floor of 53 State Street in Boston, effective May 17th.

The new space enables AV&Co. to accommodate its expanded senior management team, consulting staff, and visiting client executives. Each AV&Co. team member brings extensive expertise in economics and in focus areas that span the communications spectrum – whether it's about wireless spectrum, converged product and market strategy, bringing entertainment to customers, new distribution channels, obscure multi-dwelling unit issues or merger integration. AV&Co. enables its clients to improve investment decisions, accelerate growth, navigate challenges, optimize business performance and turn around or restructure ailing businesses.

COO Steve Conway said, "AV&Co.'s strategy to focus solely on the communications, media and related investor sectors has set us apart in an industry where generalist firms are increasingly struggling to keep abreast of these rapidly converging and complex markets." He continued, "Our deep knowledge of our industries, combined with our in-depth economic and financial capabilities, enable us to rapidly deliver fact-based insights and impactful recommendations in both up and down markets. With more than 16,000 square feet, our new offices provide an excellent base for the continued success of our business as well as expansion capacity."

About Altman Vilandrie & Company

Altman Vilandrie & Company is a pure play strategy consulting group that focuses exclusively on the communications, media and related technology and investor sectors. The company's consultants are experienced in strategy, marketing, finance, M&A, technology, regulatory and operations disciplines. Based in Boston, AV&Co. enables clients to seize new opportunities, navigate mounting challenges, improve business performance, and increase investor value within complex and converging industries. Ninety percent of the boutique firm's operator clients are large- to mid-cap companies including service providers, content creators and aggregators, and equipment and software developers. AV&Co.'s financial clients include many of the largest and most prominent investors in the communications, media and related technology markets. Additional information about the firm can be found at www.altvil.com.

###